RED AND WHITE ASSUME LEAD IN RACE FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP DEFEATING 'VARSITY IN CLOSE MATCH

McGill Seniors Down Toronto By Score Of 7-3 — Varsity Will Probably Create Tie In Their Queens Fixture Next Saturday — No Touches Made In Game Which Consisted Mostly In Kicking—Both Lines Held Tight Throughout Game—Record Crowd Of Spectators Saw Classic Struggle — Rooters Added Much Enjoyment To Afternoon, Especially Those From R.V.C.—Anderson, Little and Baillie Starred For McGill.

McGill, 7; Varsity, 3.
They did it!

Playing with that old spirit which has long been the characteristic of McGill Rugby squads when engaged in bitter struggles, the Red and White team defeated Laddie Cassell's Varsity players at the Stadium on Saturday afternoon, and thus earned the right to play off with Toronto for the Intercollegiate Football Championship for the 1920 season. Sol-dom in the history of the Intercollegiate have these two old rivals put up such a hard-fought game as that played on Saturday, and from the start of the match until the referee's final whistle, both squads showed that utter willingness to give the final measure of physical sacrifice that victory might be gained.

As a result of Saturday's win, the Red and White squad will most likely play off with Varsity for titular honors. Toronto has yet to play Queen's in the final scheduled league game of the series, but it is not considered that the Tri-color will have much of a chance against the husky Blue and White squad, and that Toronto will carry the game, thus creating a tie in the race. An informal meeting regarding the play-off, if one should be necessary, was held before the Varsity officials left for Toronto, and it is expected that some definite word as to the locality will be announced after Saturday. It is either Ottawa or Kingston, according to the present feeling of the officials of the two organizations.

If there was a McGill graduate who did not feel the impulse to stand and uncover his head to the little band of Red and White players as they gathered to give the sporting cheer for Varsity at the end of the bitter game, that graduate has lost the edge of the fine spirit which the sons of Old McGill are supposed to take out with them when they leave college. From the Rooters' section, and the stand as a whole, the undergraduates stormed the field, carried off the victorious team to the dressing rooms, some gyrated across the green in their uncontained exuberance, cheering, shouting, and finally forming up under the direction of their cheer-leaders to march through the city in the great procession of victory. But to the grads, there must have come deeper emotions which made for reverence rather than the casting off of mental and physical restraint. For Coach Shaughnessy's band of Red and White warriors performed a memorable feat on Saturday, and through sheer spirit and dogged perseverance lifted the McGill banner and held it high, so that it snapped proudly once more as it flew in the light of a great victory.

If the Blue and White had not matched the best fighting qualities of Varsity spirit against the best that Old McGill spirit stands for, the lustre of the Red and White would not have been so bright, but that grim undying spirit was not lacking among the Toronto players. The contest was fought out to the end with the enormous crowd of spectators kept in a state of perpetual excitement, and at times held spellbound watching the play as it favored first one team and then the other.

More than 10,000 wildly enthusiastic spectators witnessed the gruelling battle, one of the largest crowds that has ever witnessed a Rugby game in this city, and by far the largest gathering that has ever assembled at the Stadium. The tiers of seats in the big concrete stand were filled to overflowing, and near the centre the Red and White bearded Rooters, accompanied by a large section of the R.V.C. cheerers, gave their yells and songs, staged their stunts and added an unmeasured amount of pep to the afternoon's proceedings. Led by the band, the club turned out over 1,000 strong and gave one of the finest demonstrations yet seen at McGill. Varsity rooters were much fewer in numbers, but cheered on their team vicariously.

In Varsity, McGill defeated a team

much heavier and with a fast back line that proved a veritable power in attack. "Red" MacKenzie, Captain Joe Breen and Taylor time and again saved the Varsity team from dangerous situations by their stellar handling of the long punts, their speedy runs around the end, and through broken fields, and their occasional bucks into the line. Taylor was not so fortunate in getting his kicks off as he was in the game at Toronto, two weeks ago, and found that the McGill line-men were often getting through and blocking them. Towards the end of the game he resorted to short onside kicks, but in almost every instance these gained little ground for Varsity, due to the snappy work of "Boo" Anderson, who generally managed to get in under the pigskin and gather it unto himself. On occasion, the untiring half went by the air route and took an onside kick away from three Blue and White players who were waiting nearer the ground for the leather.

On the line the work was of a seasonal order. The lighter McGill line-men more than held their own against the husky Varsity plungers, and it was seldom that the Blue and White made gains. The McGill secondary defence, with Don Baillie, getting in under the plays, proved one of the features of the struggle.

Varsity gained the first point of the game shortly after the start of play, when, after an exchange of kicks, Taylor booted the ball behind the McGill line and it went dead. Flanagan not having a chance to pick it up owing to the speed with which the Varsity wings had come down under the kick. Wakened to action by the score, the McGill team came back strong, and after another kicking duel between Flanagan and Taylor, Anderson gathered in the leather and started a run through a broken Varsity field. Running, dodging, and using his straight-arm to perfection, "Boo" made fifty yards before he was finally brought down. Flanagan wet through for yards on the first down and brought the ball into promising territory. Then Dick Carroll came through with the unexpected, and booted the pigskin across the bar for a beautifully placed drop kick, which put the Red and White in the lead, where they remained for the rest of the game. Play alternated up and down the field, and finally MacKenzie grabbed Flanagan's kick, and before he could be nailed had carried the ball for thirty yards. Carew followed up the good work and landed the play on the McGill five-yard line with a twenty-yard run around the end.

With five yards to go, the Blue and White tried with all their tact to get across, but the McGill line did not budge, and on the three downs all the Varsity plungers got was a paltry three yards gain, leaving the Red and White in possession. Flanagan relieved the situation with a long boot out. Just before quarter time, Taylor added a point, when he kicked to Flanagan, who was forced to rouge. McGill, 3; Varsity, 2.

The teams settled down to dogged Rugby in the second period, and only one point was scored, McGill gaining this when Flanagan kicked to MacKenzie behind the line, just at the end of the half, Little and Wallace nailing "Red" before he could barge his way out to safety. It was in this quarter that the teams more or less solved one another's plays. McGill found the opening to block Taylor's kicks, while Varsity learned that it could not make yards itself, but also that it could tighten up on the Red and White bucks.

In the second half the play waxed furious, several of the players taking the count on both sides. With all its excitement and closeness, the game was kept remarkably clean, Snyder, of Toronto, being the only player to visit the penalty bench. Onside kicks by Taylor featured the opening of the last half, but when Varsity lost on off-side, McGill started a rush for the Blue and White line, Flanagan and Notman making substantial bucks, and finally "Flin" booted to Breen in front of the posts, Little nailing the speedy back and dragging him across the line for a safety touch. A series of kicking bouts between Flanagan and Taylor occupied the rest of the third quarter and the whistle blew with the pigskin at centrefield. McGill, 6; Varsity, 2.

The last period was fraught with great possibilities. Varsity started out with an onside kick by Taylor, which brought the McGill line into danger, and after a short tussle Flanagan was forced to rouge on a kick from the Varsity centre half. Enthusiasm reached a high pitch with the spectators urging on their respective teams. Little brought joy to the hearts of the McGill supporters when he grabbed a loose ball which Taylor had been forced to kick into his own scrimmage. Two fake bucks brought the play to the Varsity 20-yard line, and Flanagan attempted a drop kick which went high and wide, but sufficiently far back to enable Wallace, Little and Parkins to nail MacKenzie in his tracks for a rouge. Taylor tried a series of onside kicks, but stellar work by the McGill backs cut off any gains contemplated, and when "Boo" Anderson made his flying jump for the ball, stealing it from the Varsity men who had come down under another of Taylor's attempts, the Red and White started a dying rally to cross the Varsity line. With three minutes to go, the ball was started on its way. Two downs and still four yards off, with everybody of McGill leanings shouting for a try, the final whistle ended one of the greatest struggles seen since the great play-off between the same two teams in 1912 at Ottawa.

Coach Shaughnessy has much to be proud of, for the manner in which the team worked showed the careful drilling that the men have received from "Shag," who has given McGill a machine among the best that has ever been produced at the University. He has expressed himself as satisfied with the spirit shown by the players Saturday.

To single out any player for special mention would seem almost unfair, as every man on the field was a star in his position, especially was this true on both lines, where the players put up one of the most dogged exhibitions of Rugby. However, one must recognize to a degree the work shown by at least three of McGill's stalwarts, namely "Boo" Anderson, "Bones" Little and Don Baillie. These three players were into everything, and as secondary defence men were largely responsible for the Red and White victory. By his plucky run in the first quarter, "Boo" Anderson paved the way for Carroll to get in his drop kick, which proved a deciding factor in the game, while his tackling down under the Varsity plays was a treat to watch "Bones" was only in his second game with senior company, but showed that tenacious spirit, which, added to his football technique, made him about the most dangerous man to the Varsity squad on offensive honor. Don Baillie was not a whit behind these two, and turned out, as two weeks ago at Toronto, the hard-boiled player, breaking up every move. His work at quarter during offensive tactics was noteworthy.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

There can be little doubt that Saturday's game will go down into history as one of the most stirring that ever took place between McGill and her old rival of the Blue and White. Seldom, if ever, has a previous meeting been more replete with thrills or good football, or more productive of enthusiasm. That we won is, naturally, gratifying in the extreme, but the game was so evenly and so pluckily contested, that we find it a pleasure rather than a duty to congratulate our opponents upon their worthy showing.

Of the McGill team little can be said which would not have the appearance of fulsome adulation. They played, as McGill teams have always played, with all that was in them and richly deserved the success which crowned their efforts. It would be invidious to single out for especial mention any particular player, because it was as a team and not individually that they played and won.

Nor must we forget to accord due credit to the Rooters. Never have they been heard to better advantage and never was their support more timely. They helped to keep enthusiasm at white-heat during the whole game and the highest praise is due to Thompson and his lieutenants for their indefatigable efforts, the effect of which upon the final result can not be questioned.

A particularly pleasing feature of the game was the large attendance of Rooters from the R. V. C., who seconded the efforts of the male students in gallant fashion and whose appearance added a welcome note of color to the assemblage. Moreover, it helped towards a fuller realization of the fact that every section of the University was ranged behind the team.

Last, but by no means least we must put ourselves on record as highly appreciative of the spirit shown by the members of the second team, whom circumstances compelled to be absent from the scene of the big match. They realized that they had a part to play no less than the Senior team and despite the fact that they were thus deprived of the opportunity of watching the big game, practically all of them expressed their willingness to go to Kingston. More than that, their captain refused to avail himself of the services of any of the first team's spares, in case his action might have the effect of weakening the chances of the first team, and this self-denial was undoubtedly responsible for their ill-success at Kingston. Those who went, however, can console themselves with the thought that they did their duty and their spirit of loyalty is known and appreciated by the whole University.

REST FOR TEAM.

While Varsity rugby players are busy this week preparing for the Queens game, scheduled for next Saturday, McGill players will rest up at least until Wednesday, according to orders issued by Coach Shaughnessy, who has decided to allow the Red and White squad to break training until the middle of the week. After that the men will start in again to prepare for a play-off against the Toronto squad, which will be necessary if Laddie Cassell's players gain the victory against the Presbyterians. McGill supporters are looking forward with great enthusiasm to a play-off and the team is assured of plenty of good backing wherever the game may be played.

UNIVERSITY APPEAL ON WEDNESDAY

Annual Campaign For McGill's Y.M.C.A.

$2400 OBJECTIVE.

Undergraduates and Professors Asked For Financial Support.

A financial appeal within our own doors, and for McGill's immediate need, is going to be made during the latter part of this week by the college Y.M.C.A. At a time when the citizens of all Canada are being asked to open their hearts for Old McGill, the appeal of Old McGill's "Y" should be well taken and generously received by the undergraduate-body and staff of the University. For a demonstration within the college of undergraduate support for a "better McGill" is an adequate manifest that the McGill of to-day is worth backing to the limit.

As is generally known, the college Y.M.C.A. is supported, not by fees or universal subscription, but by the voluntary financial support of the student-body. An allowance is made to the Association by the Metropolitan Y.M.C.A. Board of $1,500 towards the work at McGill. According to a budget that minimizes in every item, the expenses of the college "Y" for this year will call for $2,400, to be given by popular subscription. When the large registration and the increased number on the teaching staff are taken into consideration, the objective should be easily attained. But to make this attainment easy, the support will necessarily be universal and good-hearted, otherwise the generous and appreciative men of McGill will have to pay the debt of those who fail to show their appreciation. The amount that is asked will be spent solely and absolutely on McGill University work. Not a cent goes beyond the campus, not a bit of it is for any other but McGill work. Strathcona Hall pays for itself, and provides a free assembly hall and place of fraternization for every man in the college who may choose to accept the invitation of the "Y" to "make himself at home in the Hall." Conversations, receptions, hospitality work, religious meetings, Bible study groups, Sunday Sings, and many other activities of those behind the Hall are typical of what will be done with the money solicited.

McGill's Y.M.C.A. is HER OWN. The building is STUDENT-PROPERTY, not owned or controlled by any outside interests. It was given, not to any non-college organization, but to the students of McGill University, by Lord Strathcona. It is ours to keep — and it is ours to support and keep going. Lord Strathcona meant it to be the headquarters of a student association to foster and further a "better McGill." He did his part in giving us the building; now we can make whatever use of it as we may will. This week's appeal, then, is for each man to do his share to make the organization at Strathcona Hall work to the best advantage for the welfare and progress of Old McGill. Its future activities will be determined by the extent of the support given to it. If you think there is room for a Christian organization willing to work for service and worth, instead of praise or gain, lend a hand to Old McGill's "Y" and be generous in the appeal that will be issued. It's a joint responsibility.

PHILOSOPH. SOC. MEET NEXT TUES.

Klineberg To Lecture On "Psychology of Laughter."

The first general meeting of the Philosophical Society of McGill University will be held on Tuesday, November 9th, at 8 p.m., at Strathcona Hall. The speaker of the evening will be Otto Klineberg, M.A., who will address the club on the interesting topic, "The Psychology of Laughter."

This topic may at first thought appear commonplace and a bit too familiar, yet it is of these universal and everyday matters that most of us know the least about. We accept their occurrence as a matter of course, and never stop to ask ourselves their why and wherefore.

Great philosophers and psychologists such as Bergson and Freud have studied and written voluminous books on this topic; and Klineberg will treat "Laughter" after their manner.

This subject, "The Psychology of Laughter," should prove interesting to all students of all faculties, inasmuch as it deals with a quality possessed by all.

An invitation is extended to all students, professors, and ladies of R.V.C. to attend this meeting, where they are assured of both an instructive and interesting address.

JUNIORS WIN OVER BISHOP'S COLLEGE HERE

Lennoxville Team Put Up Hard Fight.

SCORE: 24-0.

Scoring Mostly Done In First Half — No Tally In Third Quarter.

Continuing an unbroken line of victories this season the Junior Rugby squad kicked and smashed its way through the team from the University of Bishop's College. Although the Bishop's College men put up a very stiff fight, the McGill aggregation had piled up a score of 24 points to the Bishop's little round zero. The game was played on the Old Campus, and in spite of the big game in the afternoon, the turn-out of rooters was excellent. The scoring was nearly all done in the first half and in the third quarter no score was made at all.

The Red and White started the rolling, and kicked off at about 10.30. The Bishops gained their yards once, and then kicked. On the Juniors' second down, Williamson made a beautiful long run up to Lennoxville's fifteen-yard line. McGill bucked for their yards, and on the next down Pierce carried the pill over for a touch; it was not converted.

The Purple and White managed to run the pigskin to nearly half way, where they lost it on failure to make yards. McGill did not make over five yards on the next two downs, but on the third Pierce sent the ball on a long journey behind the Bishop's line; the Lennoxville man could not get out of danger in time, and was downed for a rouge. The Juniors had just gained the ball on the Bishops' failure to give yards on the kick when quarter time blew.

Quarter time: Juniors 6, Bishop's College 0.

The second quarter was full of scores for the Red and White, who gained three touch-downs, one of which was converted.

The Juniors bucked their way up to the Bishops' five-yard line, and Williamson ran it over very prettily. McGill had fought their way to the Lennoxville goal line again in about five minutes, and this time Pierce carried the ball across. Schwartzman repeated Pierce's performance after a hard tussle, and Whittall converted.

In this quarter Eno's bucking aided materially in helping the Juniors force their way to the goal-line; we need not mention again the men who gained the touches.

Half-time blew with the score 22-0 in favor of the Red and White.

The third quarter was an exhibition of "see-saw play" at its best. Both sides battled tooth and nail up and down the grid, without any score being made.

Three-quarter time: Juniors, 22; Univ. of Bishop's College, 0.

The Juniors managed to get within thirty yards of the Bishops' line and Williamson attempted a drop. He failed, but Schwartzman collared the Lennoxville man behind the line, scoring one more point for McGill. Within about four minutes of full time

WEST BEAT IMPERIALS AT RUGGER

General Meeting Of Rugger Enthusiasts To-Day.

CLOSE LEAGUE RACE.

Saturday's Game Resulted In Win Of 8-0 For Westerners.

The old campus was the scene of a lively rugger game at noon Saturday when the Westerners met the Imperials in the fourth game of the local Rugby series. With such favorable weather conditions as prevailed, both teams played an open game, and the result was that passing and kicking plays were much in evidence. The Westerners' fast three-quarter line rather surpassed that of their opponents, and the final outcome was a clean-cut victory for the West. Score, 8-0.

The men from the West scored their first points when Ed. Curtis secured the ball from McDougall and dodged his way over the line for a try. "Dutch" Helmecken neatly converted, making the score 5-0.

There was no further scoring until the second half, when McDougall got the ball at the 50-yard line, and after Pierce kicked behind, and one more rouge was tallied for the Juniors. Full time: Juniors, 24; Univ. of Bishop's College, 0.

John Gallery and G. Timmins handled the game.

Suits and Overcoats hand tailored

Formal announcement is made to-day of a big reduction in the price of SOCIETY BRAND CLOTHES. It comes, unexpectedly, six months ahead of time. It is made because the makers of Society Brand Clothes can now buy woollens and other raw materials at prices that make it possible to sell suits and overcoats at $35, $50 and $65.

Because it is an established Society Brand policy in a declining market to sell clothing at prices based on replacement value.

Please note this fact.

These are the permanent new low prices on all Fall Stocks.

The highest price suit or overcoat is now not more than $65, where it formerly was $75 to $90.

These are not temporary prices, created to force the sale of overloaded stocks. It is no hurry-scurry to get under cover. Society Brand dealers have only their regular Fall stocks to dispose of.

Is it true that these suits and overcoats were bought when woollens and other raw materials were at the high peak.

Is it true that they will be sold at a smaller margin of profit than has ever been known in the clothing business.

Is it true that these prices, while they are not sale prices, are actually lower than any so-called "SALE" prices announced on clothing by any dealer in Canada.

But they are the prices at which the same grade of clothing can be replaced by the makers to-day.

We fully expect that these Fall stocks at the new prices will be snapped up quickly.

We expect to see thousands of men who have never worn Society Brand Clothes buy them now.

We expect to make a quick "turnover" of the entire Fall stock.

We expect that men who know the value of hand-tailored Society Brand Clothes will be quick to buy now.

Here are facts to remember:—

The price of Society Brand Clothes is now lower because the price of woollens and other raw materials is lower.

These suits and overcoats are all wool. They are in the accepted new styles with the fuller waist and shorter vents; in fact, the last word in style that appeals to men of good taste.

They are shown in Scotch tweeds, worsteds, serges, cashmeres and in a variety of other fabrics.

They are the regular Fall stocks of each dealer whose name appears below. They are not "sale" clothes, with quality cut down to meet a low price.

This is the first time that high-grade clothing has sold in regular season at prices like these since 1916.

A Statement by the Makers of Society Brand Clothes

We vouch for the fact that all the Society Brand clothing now offered by our dealers is the regular Fall line, and that the new prices are based on replacement value. Montreal as seen nothing like this opportunity to get high-grade, hand-tailored clothing at such low prices since 1916.

ARTS SENIORS DISCUSS PLAY

Seniors Of All Faculties To Be Invited To Participate.

A meeting of seniors of all Faculties to discuss the Senior Play was held on Friday afternoon in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College.

A vote of the men and women Seniors in Arts was taken as the result of which it was decided to invite the Seniors of other Faculties to participate in the year's play. The latter are therefore cordially invited to the next meeting, which will be announced through the columns of the "Daily."

A committee to take up the choice of a play was elected. This will be done as soon as possible, and a meeting will be called to submit the committee's report for ratification.

It was further decided to proceed with rehearsals just as soon as a play has been chosen, these rehearsals continuing till Christmas, when they will lapse till after the first term examinations. Renewing about Feb. 1st, it will be the endeavour of the Senior Year to stage the play about the middle of the month, a more satisfactory time than formerly.

INTERMEDIATES FAILED TO MAINTAIN LAST WEEK'S LEAD

Queens Beat Them Decisively By Score Of 20-0 — Have Now Earned Right To Play Gif For Championship—Score Not Fair Indication Of Play — McGill Fought Desperately From Start But Were Playing a Losing Game From the Beginning — Several Men Missing From Regular Line-Up—Tri-Color Hosts At Banquet After Match.

Possibly no university in Canada, with the exception of McGill herself, felt in a happier frame of mind last Saturday night than Queen's University, and the reason was that their second team had defeated McGill Intermediates by the decisive score of 20-0.

Victory has not often visited the Tri-color in late years, and to defeat their strongest opponents—McGill—in such a clean-cut manner stirred in Queen's with mixed feelings of wonder and delight.

The Intermediates have no excuses to offer. The better team won. The Queen's men started from the very first with a brand of football that far surpassed their exhibition here of the week before. They displayed better team work and played a more steady game that spelled defeat for McGill. In the third quarter only did the Intermediates have an edge on their opponents. Then they started in fresh, and tore through for gains and made the Queen's attempts to buck the line for gains futile. At this time it seemed quite likely that the Red and White would reverse the result of the first half, but Queen's steadied down and piled up more scores for herself.

It would not be fair to say that the score was a just indication of the play, for at no time were the Intermediates completely outclassed. They played a losing game from the start, but they fought as desperately and as gamely as any team ever fought, and the Queen's men themselves said that it was one of the hardest games they had played this season. The McGill team was weakened by the absence of Laffoley and of several other players, and whatever element of luck there was in the game seemed to break on the side of Queen's.

At no time, except for that brief interval in the third quarter, could the Red and White seem to hit their stride properly, and the strong, sure booting of McLeod was a great factor in determining McGill's defeat.

McLeod proved to be the star of the game. His kicking was accurate and he out-distanced Hamilton, of the Red and White, in every exchange of punts. He scored one touch-down and several times caught Hamilton's punt, then made a cork-screw run down the field that gave substantial gains to Queen's.

For McGill, Salter and Marsh Kern made some good runs, while Andy Fraser did some heavy plunging in the line.

Queen's kicked off, and in a few minutes punted for a rouge. McGill failed to make yards. McLeod tried to punt, but the McGill line broke through and blocked his punt, and Lou Kern got the ball. Salter got the ball and made a beautiful end run. Queen's snatched the ball from him and carried it about ten yards towards McGill's line before being pulled down. McLeod punted over the heads of McGill halves. Hamilton fumbled. A Queen's man got the ball. Queen's failed to make yards. McDonald broke through for yards. Hamilton and McLeod exchanged punts. Hamilton was not given yards, and Queen's was penalized.

Queen's made yards, but lost ball by fumbling.

The quarter ended — Queen's, 1; McGill, 0.

Hamilton tried for a rouge, but kicked too far right. Salter pulled down a Queen's man and stopped a dangerous run. Queen's kicked to dead line. Armstrong broke through for yards, but Queen's blocked the beginning of a good run. Fraser was hit in the head, but continued to play. Hamilton kicked better. McLeod caught punt and made a tricky run that brought the Queen's rooters to their feet. Queen's plunged through for gains, and Graham crossed McGill's line for a touch-down, but failed to convert try. At half time the score stood, Queen's, 7; McGill, 0.

Hampson replaced Mallison. McLeod caught the ball from the kick-off and slipped through for a small gain. McGill got the ball on a fumble and made yards. Hamilton tried a drop kick from a difficult angle, but failed to cross the upright. Queen's got ball, but McGill held the line well and played a snappier brand of football than they had displayed in the earlier part of the game. McLeod got away with the ball, but Hutcheson pulled him down. McLeod kicked. McGill fumbled, and Queen's recovered ball. Queen's punted and scored a rouge. Fraser made a wild pass and Queen's got ball. McLeod kicked and McGill was forced to rouge again. McDonald tried to pass to Hutcheson, and Queen's got ball. Queen's bucked the McGill line and McLeod went over for a touch-down. He converted the try. Marsh Kern got the ball and made a beautiful run around the end. The quarter — Queen's, 15; McGill, 0.

McLeod punted and nearly rouged, then caught Hamilton's return kick and ran ten yards before being downed. Queen's bucked the line and Hutcheson went through for a touch-down. McLeod failed to convert the try. Queen's kept the play at McGill's end of the field, but the Red and White line held firmly till the end of the game. Taylor replaced Hampson. McLeod kicked. McGill fumbled and Queen's got the ball. Hutcheson was hurt and Robinson replaced him. Final score, Queen's, 20; McGill, 0.

After the game the McGill men were given a banquet in the Queen's Arts Building. This was greatly enjoyed by the McGill fellows, and they all appreciated the sportsmanlike qualities of the Queen's men present.

The teams lined up as follows:
Queen's: Flying wing — Brown
Nickle — Halves — Salter
McLeod — Halves — Hamilton
McBean — Halves — Hutcheson
Geron — Outside — Lou Kern
Bonham — Outside — McLaren
Abernethy — Middles — Fraser
Burns — Middles — Ross
Ludgate — Insides — Armstrong
Affleck — Insides — McDonald
Forrest — Scrimmage — MacMahon
Cooke — Scrimmage — Jones
Lewis — Scrimmage — Mallison
Graham — Quarter — Marsh Kern
Spares: McGill — Hampson, Taylor, Webster, Robinson.
